Jeff Calhoun will reflect on his decades-long career in the theater. He has been involved in 18 Broadway productions as either an actor, director, choreographer, producer or show doctor. He received a Tony Award nomination for his direction of Disney's Newsies as well as a Tony Award nomination for his choreography for the Broadway revival of Grease starring Rosie O'Donnell, Sam Harris and Billy Porter.

He has worked with such legends as Tommy Tune, Placido Domingo, Mary Martin, Bernadette Peters, Reba McEntire, Jeremy Jordan and Dolly Parton. His groundbreaking work with Deaf West Theater resulted in a Special Tony Award for their production of Big River; the first Broadway musical to feature a cast composed equally of deaf and hearing performers.

Opening this June there will be an original Deaf West musical called Elephant Shoes. This show will once again break new ground, featuring—for the first time on Broadway—a story about a deaf character portrayed by a deaf actor in a musical.
